Over the Fence…

Musings from the editor

Change is inevitable as the saying goes. But it is not always something that many of us like to accept. Styles change. Seasons change. The weather changes. Change is something that occurs in our daily lives, even if it is on a minute scale. (Did you change your socks today?) Change should not be feared - for often change is for the better. We should all look upon change as a fun, exciting adventure.

This is my last newsletter as Editor. It is time for someone else to take over the keyboard and put their style, their thoughts, and their words down on paper for the membership to enjoy. As the grandchildren grow (and change) my husband and I want to enjoy them before the years fly past us and college looms in their future. That means we need to make time for them.

A new Editor is needed! It is not necessary to ‘wax on eloquently’ about this and that. Just have fun and be yourself. For those interested, please contact John Rakowski, 719-748-8259 or 719-748-3861.

I have greatly enjoyed compiling this newsletter for all of you. Thank you for reading it!

PPHS Annual Meeting
The Pikes Peak Historical Society Annual Meeting was held in March at the Florissant Library. President John Rakowski spoke to those who attended about what the organization had accomplished in 2016 and where 2017 will take the group. An election of members to the Board of Directors took place with only two of the four vacancies being filled. PPHS members, Barbara Hickok and Diane Burton were elected to fill two of the vacancies. Barbara Hickok volunteered to become the new PPHS Board Secretary.
Departing the Board of Directors were Allan and Linda Appelbaum along with Kathy and Rudy Perry. Thank you for your time and years of dedicated service. And for helping guide the organization to where it is today. You will be missed.
All members are encouraged to become an active part of the Pikes Peak Historical Society. You can do a little or do a lot – whatever your time allows. Volunteer to become a greeter at the museum, submit photos or stories for the newsletter, help keep the cemetery clean or become a part of one of the various committees.

NOTHING BUT COPPER.
The reported gold strike at Florissant last week created quite a little excitement. Many of the papers were taken in by the fake, and under flaring headlines told of the immense wealth discovered at Florissant. Our esteemed contemporary, the News, got a scoop on it, and devoted about a column to an account of the richest strike ever made. For a day or two Florissant enjoyed quite a boom; but the bubble burst when it was discovered that the reported gold was only shining copper. The next day after the discovery, the Denver News contained the following: The reported gold find at Florissant proves only to have been shining copper. But until a scientific analysis had been made everyone was certain that it was gold. Colorado Springs, Colorado City, Manitou and the whole Ute pass country was tremendously excited, and the public pulse beat high. The event recalls the early days when one sanguine pioneer brought a number of large gunny sacks in which to pack his gold dust, which he expected to find in the sands of Cherry Creek. It is a pity the find was not gold. What a glorious mining boom it would have started,
Colorado Inhabited By Race of Pigmies?

Was this region inhabited by a race of prehistoric pigmies, when the world was still in the making and mighty glaciers covered the slopes of the Rocky Mountains? This is the question that F. H. Knowlton and Edward W. Berry, two of the foremost geologists of America, will attempt to answer by an exhaustive investigation of the fossil beds near Florissant in Ute Pass. Knowlton, whose investigations are for the Smithsonian museum, has charge of the geological work of the United States geological survey. Berry is special investigator for John Hopkins University and is known all over the world among scientific men.

Working under the auspices of the government and aided by a score of laborers, the two will delve into the fossil fields near Florissant in an effort to show the truth or falsity of the theory, advanced two years ago by Professor John F. Farnsworth, of the British museum, who, after a summer's work in the fossil beds, expressed the opinion that this region was probably inhabited by a race of diminutive pre-historic men. Farnsworth found what he was almost certain were traces of human existence, but the coming of the fall made it impossible for him to pursue his investigations further. The government geologists now propose to take up the work where it was left by the scientist.

A young lady of Florissant, Miss Selma Quist, has earned for herself a reputation for good marksmanship that many old hunters might envy. While visiting recently at the ranch of W.C. Vermillon, near Lake George, her attention was one day attracted to a large wild cat, which was prowling around on the hill, about 100 yards from the house. Finally the animal perched upon the limb of a tree and the young lady concluded to try a shot at his catship. Obtaining a 50-110 Sharp’s rifle from the house, she took an off-hand shot at the animal, sending a bullet fairly through his neck, killing him instantly. Miss Quist is but sixteen and of slight frame, and as the rifle was about all she could hold the shot is considered a remarkably good one, especially when the distance is taken into consideration.

FOUND DEAD IN A CAVE.

Some time ago Joseph Hurtgen, a specimen hunter of this place, discovered a natural cave on Badger Mountain, ten miles west of here. Some distance back from the mouth of the cave is a crevice in the rock going down to a depth of thirty feet, at the bottom of which are fine specimens of crystallized lime. Mr. Hurtgen placed a rope at the top of the crevice as a means of going up and down. On going to the cavern today the rope was found to be broken a short distance from the top. A new rope was procured, and on reaching the bottom he came upon the dead body of a man. He was lying in a heap, and to all appearances had been dead several days. He did not recognize the man. The coroner has been notified.
Drilling, Fracking, Earthquakes & Our Energy Bills

John Rakowski spoke to a large crowd who were in attendance for the February Chautauqua. These inquisitive people listened with rapt attention as John presented an informative presentation on fracking; what it is and how it ultimately affects us all – through our utility bill. Beginning with the history of fracking in post-Civil War times, John spoke about what fracking is and how it effects the environment. He went on to explain the association between fracking and the earthquakes which are now occurring in the mid-section of this country. John Rakowski worked as an exploration and exploitation geologist in the oil and gas industry for over 40 years. He is now retired and living in the Florissant area.

The Life & Times of Henry Hoder and the Wildhorn Dude Ranch

The Wildhorn Dude Ranch has been a part of Florissant history for more than half a century. Owned and operated by the Hoder Family, the Ranch has seen everything from cowboys when it was a working cattle ranch to moonshiners and mafia shootouts during the Prohibition Era to a variety of celebrities coming to stay when it was a dude ranch. Steve Plutt, local historian, presented a fun and informative talk about the Wildhorn Dude ranch at the April Chautauqua. A large crowd filled the Florissant Library, eager to hear the rich and lively history presented. Steve Plutt knew Henry Hoder while Henry was alive and a lot of the information presented in his program came first hand from Henry himself. Steve Plutt grew up in Teller County and has had a fondness for Colorado history since he was in elementary school. For 20 years, Steve has been a member of the Park County Historic Preservation Commission. Steve and his wife, Kim, live in the Tarryall area of Park County.

FLORISSANT PIONEER CEMETERY

Florissant’s cemetery received its first permanent “guest” in 1874. This is not surprising, since the town of Florissant was established by Judge James Castello in 1870. What is surprising, however, is that Frank, James’ son, waited until 1886 to incorporate a Florissant Cemetery Association. This was probably in anticipation of the boom that would come to the area with the arrival of the Midland Railroad. The Pikes Peak Historical Society maintains this tradition of stewardship with its management of the Florissant Pioneer Cemetery on behalf of Teller County. If you meet the residency requirements; you may also secure a final resting place in this historic cemetery. Donations of $300 are requested for a full burial, and only $150 for cremains.

Call the PPHS at 719-748-8259 or John Rakowski at 719-748-3861 to secure your future at this historic site.

PPHS owns and operates two museums: The Pikes Peak Historical Society Museum, at 18033 Teller County Road CR1 (across from the Florissant Post Office) and the Schoolhouse Museum, located at Teller County Roads CR31 and CR3 (Wildhorn Rd.).

Our Cemetery Committee manages the 1874 Florissant Pioneer Cemetery on behalf of Teller County. Our Beautification Committee sponsors an area-wide clean-up each spring and plants flowers throughout the town of Florissant. Our Chautauqua Committee sponsors free educational programs during the year, and our Culturally Modified Tree Committee researches and records Native American Culturally Modified Trees.
